

Privacy Policy

We would ask our visitors to provide us with personal information in a variety of situations.

In order to protect your privacy, we take the following points very seriously.

1. Observance of Laws and Regulations

We will comply with all laws and regulations regarding personal information.

2. Safety Management

We assign a manager to each operation that handles personal information. We appoint a section manager for each section as the administrator.

We will take safety control measures to prevent unauthorized external access, loss, destruction, falsification, or leakage of personal information.

3. Use, Provision, and Entrustment of Personal Information

When we use personal information, we will do so within the scope of the purposes for which the personal information is used.

When we provide all or part of the personal information in our possession to a third party or outsource the processing, etc., we will properly select the party to which the information is provided or outsourced, and provide the necessary guidance and supervision to ensure that the party is properly managed in the same manner as we are.

4. Disclosure of information as required by law

We may be compelled to disclose personal information in response to a subpoena, warrant, or order from a judicial or governmental agency.
